ACTIVITY 11

Activity: "I can't believe my eyes!".
Resources: O.H.P.
Language Focus: What/How for exclamations.
Skills: Writing / Speaking.
Level: Elementary.
Time: 20 minutes.

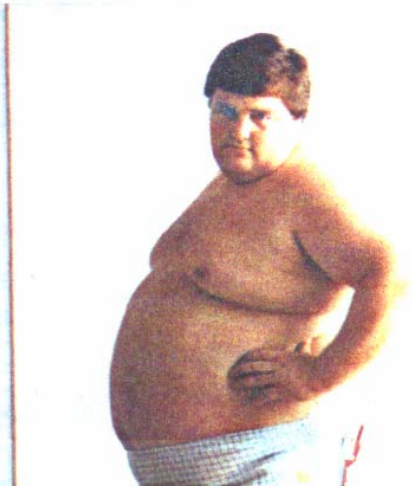
Instructions:

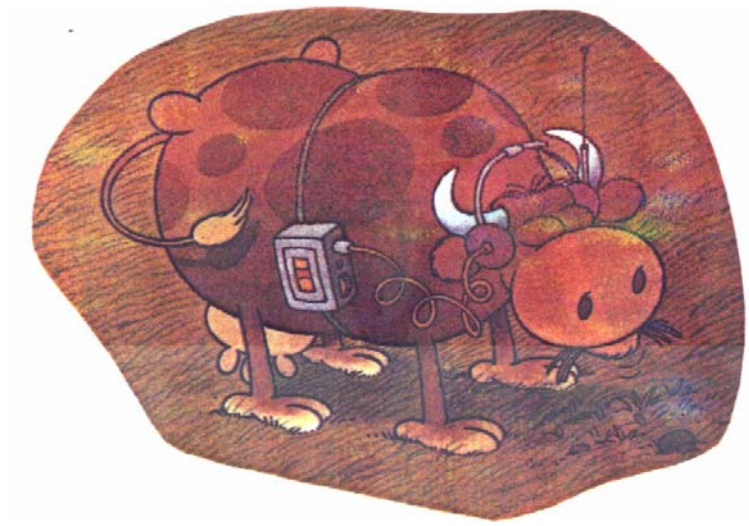
- Show transparencies on OHP.
- Ask students to write exclamations expressing their reaction to the projected images.
- Selected students choose random exclamations and read them out to the class. The other students must guess which images they are referring to.

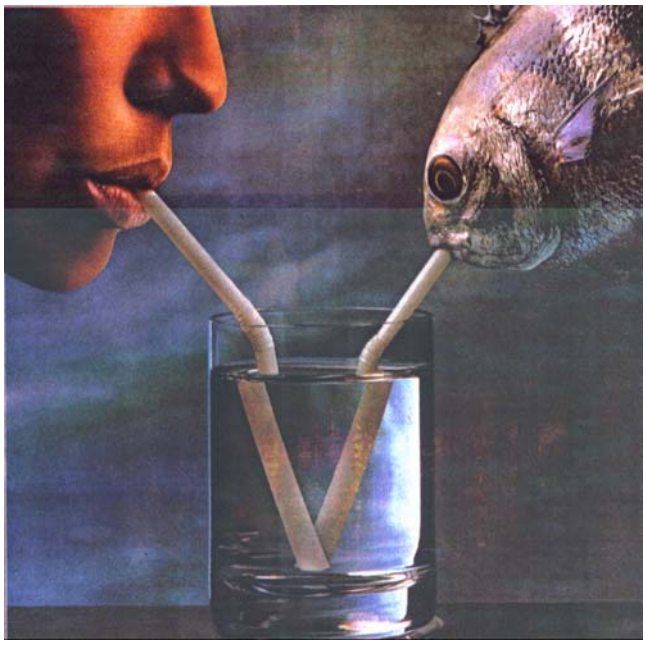
(This could be done as a matching exercise for weaker students, providing them with the exclamations).

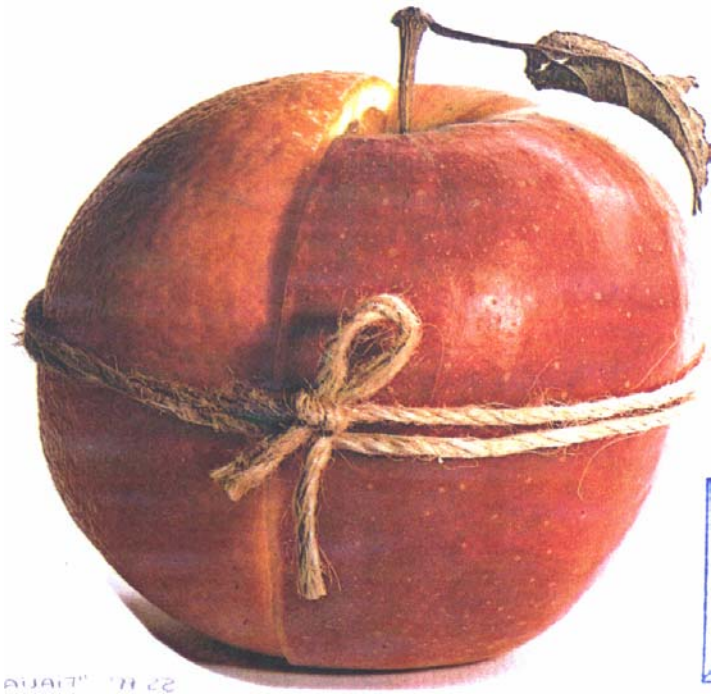
Thought for the day:
"There was no need to do any housework at all. After the first four years, the dirt doesn't get any worse".
(Quentin Crisp, English entertainer).

ACTIVITY 11. EXCLAMATIONS.









This key is on display at the Topkapi Palace Museum in Istanbul. Sultan Mahmud II (1808 to 1839), a westernizing reformer who fought to preserve the Ottoman Empire, presented it to a military commander as a symbol of sovereign governorship over newly acquired territories

Telescope, Louis XV period, in wood, covered with transparent lacquer on a gold ground. On the six golden barrels are enamel silhouettes of birds and animals. The end of the tube is inset with a movable watch.
